Customer Feedback & Complaint Handler

An AI Agent Built with n8n Cloud and Google Gemini

Developed by: Binal Desai

Date: 1 October 2026

1. Introduction

Businesses collect customer feedback all the time, but a lot of it just sits in a form or an inbox and nobody looks at it quickly. If a customer is unhappy, the delay in responding can cost the business that customer for good.

The Customer Feedback & Complaint Handler is an AI agent that fixes this. It reads every piece of feedback the moment it comes in, figures out whether it is a complaint, logs it for the team, and responds automatically - either with an apology and a discount code, or a simple thank-you message. No one has to sit and read every single submission by hand.

This guide explains what the system does, how to use it, and how to read the results. It is written so that anyone - even someone who has never used n8n or AI tools before - can follow along.

2. Objectives

This project was built to:

- Automatically read and understand customer feedback, instead of relying on someone to check it manually.
- Tell the difference between a genuine complaint and normal or positive feedback.
- Alert the right person immediately when a complaint comes in, instead of hours or days later.
- Respond to every customer automatically, so no one is left without a reply.
- Keep a clean, searchable record of every piece of feedback in one place.

3. Prerequisites

3.1 What the customer needs

- A device with an internet connection.
- A valid email address (to receive the automatic reply).

3.2 What the system runs on

- An active n8n Cloud account (free tier).
- A Google account, for Google Sheets and Gmail.
- A Google Gemini API key (free tier).
- A Slack workspace, for internal alerts.

3.3 Technology stack

Tool	What it is used for
n8n Cloud	Runs the whole workflow - connects every step together, no coding required
n8n Form	The public web form customers use to submit feedback
Google Gemini	Reads the feedback and works out the sentiment and whether it is a complaint
Google Sheets	Stores every submission as a row, so results can be reviewed later
Slack	Sends an instant alert to the team when a complaint comes in
Gmail	Sends the automatic reply - an apology or a thank-you - to the customer

4. System Architecture Overview

The system is built as a chain of steps in n8n. Each step hands its result to the next one automatically:

1. A customer fills in the feedback form.
2. Google Gemini reads the feedback and the star rating, and returns a sentiment, a yes/no complaint flag, and a one-line summary.
3. A short piece of logic combines Gemini's judgement with the star rating, and also picks a discount code to use later if needed.
4. The submission is saved as a new row in a Google Sheet.
5. The system checks whether this is a complaint.
6. If it is a complaint, a Slack alert is sent to the team and an apology email with a discount code is sent to the customer.
7. If it is not a complaint, a short thank-you email is sent instead.

5. How to Submit Feedback

Step 1: Open the form

Open the feedback form using the link below (this is your n8n Form production URL):

<https://binaldesai06.app.n8n.cloud/form-test/24b7cf48-d8ee-4559-822f-129cef31e068>

Step 2: Fill in your details

- Your Name
- Your Email
- Rating (1–5)
- Your Feedback - a short description of your experience

Step 3: Submit

Click the Submit button. That's it - the AI agent takes over from here automatically. You do not need to do anything else.

The screenshot shows a web form titled "Customer Feedback" with the subtitle "We'd love to hear about your experience." The form contains four input fields: "Your Name" (filled with "Binal Desai"), "Your Email" (filled with "binaldesai06@gmail.com"), "Rating (1-5)" (filled with "1"), and "Your Feedback" (filled with "Worst experience. Broken product received!"). Below the fields is a large orange "Submit" button. At the bottom, it says "Form automated with n8n" with the n8n logo.

6. What Happens Behind the Scenes

Once you click Submit, here is what the AI agent actually does with your feedback, step by step:

6.1 Sentiment analysis

Google Gemini reads your written feedback together with your star rating, and returns three things:

- Sentiment - positive, neutral, or negative.
- Is this a complaint? - yes or no.
- Summary - a one-line summary of what you said.

6.2 The complaint rule

A submission is treated as a complaint if either of these is true:

- Gemini judges the feedback itself to sound like a complaint, OR
- The star rating is 2 or lower, regardless of what the written text says.

This second rule exists to catch cases where someone leaves a low rating but writes something that does not sound negative - the rating is treated as the more honest signal in that case.

6.3 Logging

Every submission, whatever the result, is saved as a new row in the Google Sheet, with the name, email, rating, feedback, sentiment, complaint flag, summary and the exact time it was submitted.

7. Feedback Classification Logic

Condition	Result	What the customer receives
Gemini says it is a complaint, OR rating is 1 or 2	Complaint	Apology email with a discount code, plus an internal Slack alert
Gemini says it is not a complaint, AND rating is 3 or higher	Not a complaint	A short thank-you email

The discount code is picked automatically from a short list of codes, so not every apology email uses the same code.

8. Sample Inputs and Outputs

The table below shows real examples that were used to test the system, along with what the AI agent decided and did for each one. Use this section as a reference for what "correct" behaviour looks like.

Sample input	Rating	AI result	What happened
"Worst experience ever. The package arrived damaged and nobody replied to my emails for a week."	1	Negative / Complaint	Slack alert sent + apology email with discount code

Sample input	Rating	AI result	What happened
"Loved the product! Fast shipping and great packaging."	5	Positive / Not a complaint	Thank-you email sent
"It was okay, nothing special. Delivery was average."	3	Neutral / Not a complaint	Thank-you email sent
"Great product, love it! Sorry, I clicked the wrong star."	1	Positive text, but Complaint (rating rule)	Slack alert sent + apology email, because the rating was 1 or below even though the text was positive

8.1 Evidence from testing

Add real screenshots from your own test run below, showing the actual input and the actual result side by side.

9. Viewing Results in Google Sheets

Every submission is recorded in a Google Sheet called "Customer Feedback Log", with one row per submission. This is the full historical record of all feedback received.

- Name - the customer's name
- Email - the customer's email address
- Rating - the star rating given (1–5)
- Feedback - the written feedback
- Sentiment - positive, neutral, or negative, as judged by Gemini
- IsComplaint - yes or no
- Summary - a one-line AI-written summary
- Timestamp - the exact date and time of submission

11. Troubleshooting

Problem	Likely cause	What to do
Form does not load	The workflow is not published / active in n8n	Open n8n and make sure the workflow is switched to Active, then use the Production URL, not the Test URL
No Slack alert for a clear complaint	The bot was not invited to the channel, or the workflow is paused	In Slack, type /invite @YourBotName in the alert channel
Email not received	It may have landed in spam, or the Gmail credential expired	Check the spam folder; reconnect the Gmail credential in n8n if needed
Everything lands in the wrong branch	A stray space in an expression, or stale test data	Re-check the If node's condition for extra spaces; re-run the workflow with a fresh form submission

12. Conclusion

The Customer Feedback & Complaint Handler shows how a small, no-code AI agent can take over a genuinely repetitive task - reading feedback, judging its tone, and replying - while still leaving a clear, reviewable trail for the team in Google Sheets and Slack.

Because it is built entirely on free tools (n8n Cloud, Gemini, Google Sheets, Gmail and Slack), it can be set up and run at no cost, and extended later with more rules, more channels, or a dashboard on top of the Sheet.
